Recycle your cell phone for your local food bank

Since its launch in 2003, the Phones for Food program has generated nearly $500,000 for the food bank community across Canada and diverted approximately 350,000 wireless devices from landfills.

The Phones for Food program collects phones in two ways- the first through phones sent in via postage paid envelopes included in boxes of new wireless handsets sold in Rogers Wireless and Fido outlets. Phones are also collected for recycling or refurbishing at approximately 1,000 Rogers Wireless and Fido locations.

Donating is easy- simply drop off you phone at your nearest Rogers or Fido store or send in your old phone in the prepaid Rogers envelope when you purchase your new Rogers phone.
